Feedback from members tells us that these meetings add value by facilitating a rich, open dialogue for industry leaders which is topical, provocative and future thinking. They aim to take down professional barriers to allow a free exchange of ideas and experience, and help careers by enabling members to steer their ideas and develop true friendships over time across a range of professions.

Membership of each Council is capped at a maximum of 50 people to ensure the quality of personal interaction between participants. The Councils meet in person twice a year, once in February to coincide with the ULI Europe Conference and in the second half of the year. Councils are now also holding up to four virtual meetings a year.

Cities exist in a competitive global market place vying for investment against established world cities across Europe and the United States as well as the rapidly urbanising emerging markets in Asia, South America and Africa.

There is a pressing need to make Europe’s cities more competitive, resilient and sustainable and this challenge is at the heart of the urban regeneration process. However, the successful reuse of brownfield land and the reinvention of redundant or forgotten parts of a city, is a highly complex process and requires insight and cooperation from a diverse range of disciplines.

ULI’s Urban Regeneration Council fosters stronger interaction between city governments, real estate developers and practitioners and major institutional investors. It looks to share ideas and experiences from around the world to help provide insights into best practice in city development and urban regeneration.
